Parts of Speech

There are eight parts of speech. The parts of speech are nouns, pronouns, verbs, adverbs, conjunctions, adjectives, prepositions, and interjections.

A word's part of speech is based on how it is used in a sentence. For example, a word is a noun if it functions as a subject, an object, or a predicate nominative.

Here are some examples of how the word right can be different parts of speech.

We respect your right to speak.	(noun—direct object)
Is this the right way?	(adjective)
These changes will right a wrong.	(verb)
My house is right next to the school.	(adverb)
Right! I absolutely agree.	(interjection)

Parts of Speech - Nouns

A common noun names a person, place, thing, or idea. Nouns may be singular or plural. A proper noun names a particular person, place, or thing. A proper noun begins with a capital letter.

Some of the Functions of Nouns

Subject	The subject is whom or what the sentence is about. Example: Tom likes to play piano.
Direct Object	A direct object receives the action of the verb. Example: Tom plays the piano. To find the DO ask: Tom plays what? Tom plays the piano .
Indirect Object	An indirect object occurs only when there is a direct object. Example: Mr. Gore gave the class an assignment. Ask: To whom or for whom is the action of the verb directed?
Object of a Preposition	The object of a preposition comes at the end of a prepositional phrase. Example: Mr. Gore plays in an orchestra .
Predicate Nominative (Predicate Noun)	A predicate nominative renames the subject. Example: Tom and Mr. Gore are musicians .
Possessive	A possessive noun shows ownership and usually modifies another noun. Example: Mr. Gore's class uses Tom's piano.

Parts of Speech - Pronouns

A pronoun takes the place of a noun. The noun that the pronoun is referring to is called the antecedent. The antecedent is in the same sentence or a recent earlier sentence; occasionally, an antecedent is not specifically named, it is implied, or "understood."

Examples: The puppy is in its pen.
(Puppy is the antecedent, so we know "its pen" means the puppy's pen.)
It has been raining all day.
(There is no clear antecedent, but we know "it" refers to the weather.)

Types of Pronouns
Case	Personal Pronouns
Subjective	Used as the subject of a sentence or clause Singular: I, you, he/she, it Plural: we, you, they
Objective	Used as an object; found in the predicate of a sentence Singular: me, you, him/her, it Plural: us, you, them
Possessive	Used to show ownership; modify nouns Singular: my, mine*, your, yours*, his*, her, hers*, its* Plural: our, ours*, your, yours*, their, theirs* * These can stand alone.
Other Types of Pronouns
Indefinite	Replaces a noun that is not specific Singular: another, anybody, anyone, anything, each, either, everybody, everyone, everything, little, much, neither, nobody, no one, nothing, one, other, somebody, someone, something Plural: both, few, many, others, several Either: all, any, more, most, none, some
Relative	Relates a group of words to the rest of the sentence (that, which, who, whose, whom, whoever, whomever, whichever, whatever)
Interrogative	Asks a question (what, which, who, whom, whose)
Demonstrative	Points out a noun or acts as an adjective (this, that, these, those)
Reflexive	Refers back to the subject Singular: myself, yourself, himself, herself, itself Plural: ourselves, yourselves, themselves
Intensive	Emphasizes a noun Singular: myself, yourself, himself, herself, itself Plural: ourselves, yourselves, themselves

Notes on Pronouns

Interrogative pronouns ask a question (What? Which? Who?). Whom is the objective case of who, and whose is the possessive of who.

Use the pronoun who as a subject or predicate nominative just like other nominative case pronouns (he, she, or they).

Example: Who is your best friend? (Who is the subject of the sentence.)

Use the pronoun whom as an object just like other objective case pronouns (him, her, or them).

Example: For whom did you bake the cake? (Whom is the object of the preposition for.)

Use the pronoun whose to show possession just like other possessive pronouns (his, her, or their).

Example: Please call the children whose parents have arrived.

Demonstratives can act as pronouns or adjectives. As a pronoun, a demonstrative points out a noun. As an adjective, a demonstrative modifies a noun.

Examples: That is my house. (used as a pronoun)

Those flowers are red. (used as an adjective)

A reflexive pronoun refers back to the subject. A reflexive pronoun cannot be removed without changing the meaning of the sentence.

Example: Mindy e-mailed herself a copy of the recipe. vs. Mindy e-mailed a copy of the recipe.

A reflexive pronoun always refers to an antecedent, which in this case, is Mindy.

Intensive pronouns are the same as reflexive pronouns but are used differently. An intensive pronoun emphasizes its antecedent, and can be removed from a sentence without changing the meaning.

Example: Doris built the house herself. Doris built the house.

Parts of Speech - Verbs

Action Send action to a direct object

(Transitive) Example: A stunt man performs dangerous feats.
(verb – performs, direct object – feats)

Action Have no direct object

(Intransitive) Example: The symphony performs every Sunday.
(verb – performs, no direct object)

Being Do not show action; show a state of being

Examples: is, are, was, were, be, am, being, been

Linking Links the subject with a noun or adjective

Examples: appear, become, feel, seem, smell, taste, sounds, and all forms of be.

Auxiliary Used with a main verb to form a verb phrase

(Helping) Examples: is, are, was, were, be, am, being, been, might, could, should, would, can, do, does, did, may, must, will, shall, have, has, had

Verb Tense

Verb Tense tells the time when the action or condition of the verb occurs.

Simple Verb Tenses

Present	The action is occurring now or is unchanging.	The house is new. (singular subject) The boys swim. (plural)
Past	The action was started and completed in the past.	The clock stopped. (singular subject) The buses ran. (plural)
Future	The action will not start until the future.	The snow will fall. (singular subject) The lakes will freeze. (plural)

Perfect Verb Tenses

A perfect verb tense or perfect verb form describes a completed action. All perfect verb forms use past tense verbs.

Present (has / have)	Action is ongoing or indefinite.	Nick has finished two of his assignments. We have played soccer for five years.
Past (had)	Shows which event in the past happened first.	She had asked for help before she began working. The children had napped before coming down to dinner.
Future (will have)	Action will occur in the future, before some other action.	I will have completed my chores by bedtime. They will have learned the routines by next year.

Progressive Verb Tenses

A main verb that ends in -ing works with a helping verb to form the progressive tense. The verb phrase shows action that is ongoing in present, past, or future.

Present We are talking.      Past We were talking.      Future We will be talking.

Irregular Verbs

Irregular Verbs do not follow the patterns of simple or perfect tense. Such verbs must be memorized. Here is a list of some common irregular verbs.

Present	Past	Use with has, have, or had	Present	Past	Use with has, have, or had bear	bore	born	hold	held	held bite	bit	bitten	lie	lay	lain
bleed	bled	bled	light	lit / lighted	lit / lighted
buy	bought	bought	sing	sang	sung
cling	clung	clung	shine	shone	shone
deal	dealt	dealt	sit	sat	sat
feel	felt	felt	sleep	slept	slept forgive	forgave	forgiven	spin	spun	spun grind	ground	ground	string	strung	strung
hear	heard	heard	swim	swam	swum

Parts of Speech - Conjunctions

Conjunctions connect similar words, clauses, or phrases within a sentence.

Coordinating Join two equal elements or two complete thoughts
(Use the acronym FANBOYS: for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so.)
Example: We swam in the ocean and roasted hot dogs over the fire.

Correlative Work in pairs to join words either/or neither/nor both/and whether/or as/as if/then
Example: Neither Jim nor his father cared for mushrooms.

Subordinating Join a complete thought with an incomplete thought
Example: Finish your homework before you go outside.

Examples of Subordinating Conjunctions

after	before	if	though	when although	even if	since	till	whenever as	even though	than	unless	wherever because	how	that	until	while

Parts of Speech – Adjectives

Adjectives modify nouns or pronouns. Adjectives tell how many, what color, how big, how small, what kind, and so on. Example: He was a tall man.

A proper adjective begins with a capital letter. Example: Alaskan Husky.

An article is a special type of adjective (a, an, the). Example: Throw Jack the ball.

Parts of Speech – Prepositions

Prepositions relate nouns or pronouns to other words in the sentence. A prepositional phrase begins with a preposition and ends with a noun or a pronoun.

Some Common Prepositions

about	around	by	into	out	under above	before	down	near	outside	underneath across	behind	during	nearby	over	until after	below	except	next to	past	up against	beneath	for	of	through	upon along	beside	from	off	throughout	with

Parts of Speech – Interjections

An interjection is a word or a phrase that shows emotion (surprise, relief, fear, or anger).

Examples: Ouch! Good grief! Wow!

Sentences

Features of a sentence

1. Begins with a capital letter
2. Ends with punctuation/end mark
3. Conveys a complete thought

Fragments

A fragment is not a sentence because it does not express a complete thought. A fragment is missing either a subject or a verb.

Examples: The book that I read. (missing a verb)    Running down the street. (missing a subject)

Run-on Sentences

A run-on is two or more complete thoughts that run together without proper punctuation or conjunctions.

Examples:

Incorrect: Lori wants to be a biologist because she likes nature but she does not enjoy being outside if it is cold because she is more of a warm weather person and some biologists must do research outside so maybe Lori should study something else instead.

Correct: Lori wants to be a biologist because she likes nature. However, Lori does not enjoy being outside if it is cold. She is more of a warm weather person and some biologists must do research outside. Maybe Lori should study something else instead.

Parts of a Sentence

Subject	The simple subject has no modifiers. Every sentence has a simple subject. The complete subject includes the simple subject plus all of the modifiers that go with it. Example: A few ravenous teenagers devoured the pizza. Teenagers is the simple subject. A few ravenous teenagers is the complete subject.
Predicate	The simple predicate is the verb. The complete predicate is the verb as well as all the words that modify the verb. Example: The tired children climbed slowly upstairs. Climbed is the simple predicate, or verb. Climbed slowly upstairs is the complete predicate.

The Four Sentence Types

Type	Other Name	Punctuation	Example:
declarative	statement	period	This is a sentence.
interrogative	question	question mark	Is this correct?
imperative	command/request	period	Please open the door.
exclamatory	exclamation	exclamation point	This is awesome!

Sentence Structure

Simple	Parts: one complete thought; subject and predicate only Example: We will hold a rally at the local park.
Compound	Parts: two or more complete thoughts Joined by: coordinating conjunction Example: There will be speeches in the morning, and we will play games in the afternoon.
Complex	Parts: join a complete thought with one or more incomplete thoughts Joined by: subordinating conjunction Example: The rally will last until dusk unless the weather is severe.

Restrictive and Nonrestrictive phrases

If a word or phrase is nonrestrictive, it can be removed without changing the meaning of the sentence. Example: Chocolate, of course, is the best ice cream flavor.

If a phrase is restrictive, you cannot remove it without changing the meaning of the sentence. Example: The shop around the corner sells single slices of pizza.

Punctuation
Dash ( – )	Use a dash to set off extra information that comes in the middle or at the end of a sentence. This information is not essential to the meaning of the sentence. A dash can be used in the same way as a colon. Dashes are used for special effect and should not be used very often. Example: Dan Kick – a college all-star – is our new coach.
Semicolon ( ; )	Use a semicolon to separate items in a series if there are already commas in the items. Example: Lorain, Ohio; New Castle, Pennsylvania; and Chicago, Illinois
Comma ( , )	Use commas to separate words or phrases in a series. Example: Sun brought a coloring book, some crayons, a pair of scissors, and a ruler.
	Use a comma to separate two independent clauses joined by a conjunction. Example: Dad works in the city, and he is a commuter.
	Use a comma after an introductory word, such as an interjection. Example: Hey, who wants to play tennis? Do not use a comma if there is an end mark after the interjection. Example: Oh no! It's starting to rain.
	Use a comma to separate two words or two numbers when writing a date. Example: Friday, April 8, 2011
	Use a comma between the city and state in an address. Examples: Boston, MA      Seattle, WA      Honolulu, HI
	Use a comma before or after a quote if there is no end mark. Example: "You know," said Marta, "Robert is an excellent violinist."
	Insert a comma after introductory words or phrases in a sentence. Example: On the other hand, you may not need any help.
	Use commas before and after "interrupting phrases" within a sentence. Example: Ms. Cole, the bank teller , was very helpful.
	Use commas before and/or after contrasting phrases that use not . Example: I worked on my science project, not my essay , all evening.
	Use a comma to separate the words yes and no from the rest of a sentence. Examples: Yes, I will join you. No, thank you.
	Use a comma to separate a "tag question" from the rest of a sentence. Examples: You saw that, didn't you? George will lead the choir, won't he?
	Use a comma to show direct address. Examples: Please sit down, Mrs. Schumacher. Come here, Peggy, I want you to meet Mrs. Schumacher.
Apostrophe ( ' )	Use an apostrophe to form contractions or to form a possessive noun. Examples: I don't want to go. That was Sherry's little sister.

Punctuation (continued) - Other Types of Punctuation

Punctuating nonrestrictive elements: Use commas, parentheses, or dashes to separate nonrestrictive elements.

commas: Jerry, as you may know, is Coretta's brother. I will, therefore, call Jerry to get Coretta's address. On the other hand, I can look up the information myself.

parentheses: Poppy's Pizza Shop (in Wexford Plaza) won the award for best veggie pizza. All of my sisters (including Vera) will be bridesmaids.

dashes: The Sound of Music—one of my favorite films—featured the music of Rogers and Hammerstein. It starred two excellent actors—Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer.

Punctuating Titles

Show the title of a book, movie, play, television show, or website by using italics or underlining it.

Examples: Sarah, Plain and Tall or Sarah, Plain and Tall
Peter and the Wolf or Peter and the Wolf
Sesame Street or Sesame Street

Put quotation marks around the title of a short work, such as a poem, song, short story, or book chapter.

Examples: "Dreams" is a poem by Langston Hughes.
 We sang "Jingle Bells" and many other winter songs.
 "The Monkey's Paw" is a scary short story by W.W. Jacobs.
 In My Side of the Mountain, by Jean Craighead George, one of the chapters is called "The Old, Old Tree."

Proofreader's Symbols

Description	Symbol	Example
Make capital	≡	the car raced down the street.
Add something	^	The car raced down ^ street. the
Make lower case	/	The car raced down the street.
Take something out	∫	The car raced down the the street.

Figurative Language

A simile is a way to describe something by using a comparison. A simile compares two things using the words like or as.

Example: The baby is as playful as a kitten. (A baby is compared to a kitten.)

A metaphor compares two things but does not use like or as. It uses a form of the verb be.

Example: Joey is a magnet for bad luck. (He attracts bad luck.)

The denotation of a word is its most specific and exact meaning, the dictionary definition. The connotation of word is a symbolic or figurative meaning.

Example: Mrs. Beardsley has a big heart. (The word heart connotes kindness.)

The patient has an enlarged heart. (The word heart denotes an internal organ.)

Personification is a literary device in which an author gives human features to something non-human.

Example: A battalion of sunflowers stood at attention, facing the commanding officer. (On a farm, sunflowers grow in rows; they are rigid, like soldiers in formation, and the flower always turns toward the sun.)

An idiom is a saying with a figurative—not literal—meaning; the saying usually only has meaning within a specific culture.

Examples: We bought a used car, and it's a real lemon!
(refers to a car that has many problems or doesn't run)

At first I was angry, but I got over it.
(refers to letting go of something that was upsetting)

Spelling Rules

Adding Prefixes

When adding a prefix, or joining two words do not change the spelling of the base word.

Adding Suffixes that Begin with a Consonant

When adding a suffix that begins with a consonant, do not change the spelling of the base word.

Examples: joy + ful → joyful      wool + ly → woolly      agree + ment → agreement pain + ful → painful      sincere + ly → sincerely      govern + ment → government

Common Exceptions: argue + ment → argument      true + ly → truly      nine + th → ninth judge + ment → judgment      due + ly → duly      awe + ful → awful

Adding Suffixes that Begin with a Vowel

When a word ends in a vowel + y, add a suffix without changing the spelling of the base word.

Examples: employ + er → employer      play + ing → playing      gray + est → grayest enjoy + ment → enjoyment

When a word ends in silent e, usually drop the e to add a suffix that begins with a vowel.

Example: love + able → lovable      (suffix begins with a vowel)

When a word ends in a consonant + y pattern, usually change the y to i when adding a suffix.

Example: try + ed → tried      (ends in consonant + y; change the y to i)

Do not change the y to i if the word ends in a vowel + y pattern or if the suffix is ing.

Examples: destroy + ed → destroyed      (vowel + y)
 hurry + ing → hurrying      (suffix is ing)

When a one-syllable word ends in the cvc pattern (consonant - vowel - consonant), usually double the final consonant to add a suffix that begins with a vowel.

Examples: ship + ing → shipping      (suffix begins with a vowel) ship + ment → shipment      (suffix begins with a consonant) nut + y → nutty      (suffix is y)

When a one-syllable word ends in the cvc pattern, and the final consonant is s, x or w, do not double the final consonant.

Examples: mix + ing → mixing box + ed → boxed
 slow + er → slower

When a multi-syllable word ends in the cvc pattern, and the accent is on the last syllable, usually double the final consonant to add a suffix that begins with a vowel.

Example: commit + ing → committing      (suffix begins with a vowel)

Common Exception: prefer + able → preferable

Help Pages

Spelling Rules (continued)

Making Plurals

When a word ends in s, x, z, ch, or sh add -es to make the plural

Examples: tax → taxes wish → wishes

Many words that end in f or fe, change the f or fe to -ves.

Examples: life → lives thief → thieves

Other words that end in f or ff do not follow the rule for making plurals.

Examples: cliff → cliffs belief → beliefs

For words that end in a consonant + o, add an s to make the plural.

Example: piano → pianos

Other words that end in a consonant + o, add an es to make the plural.

Example: tomato → tomatoes

Irregular plural nouns have a completely different spelling in the plural form.

Examples: ox → oxen goose → geese louse → lice

Place i before e, except after c, or when sounded like /ā/ as in neighbor and weigh.

Examples: mischief receive eight

There are many exceptions to spelling rules. If you are not sure of the spelling of a word, use a dictionary to check.

Analogies

An analogy is a way of comparing.

Example: mayor : city :: governor : state. This is read: mayor is to city as governor is to state.

To solve an analogy, figure out the relationship between the two words.

The mayor is the leader of the city. The governor is the leader of a state.

Example: lamb : sheep :: calf : _____ horse piglet cow kitten

What is the relationship? A lamb is a baby sheep. The missing word must be cow because a calf is a baby cow.

In an analogy, the words may be compared in many ways.

Relationship	Example
synonyms	happy : joyful :: tall : high Happy and joyful are synonyms . Tall and high are synonyms too.
antonyms	thin : thick :: rich : poor Thin is the opposite of thick . Rich is the opposite of poor .
descriptions	bright : sunshine :: prickly : porcupine Sunshine is bright . A porcupine is prickly .
parts	wheels : bicycle :: legs : table A bicycle has wheels . A table has legs .
categories or subgroups	rabbit : mammal :: orange : fruit A rabbit is a type of mammal . An orange is a type of fruit .
